1961 TALON

KINGSBURY HIGH SCHOOL MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE VOLUME IV

Co-Editors: JESSICA MOORE
THELMA GREEN

Business Manager: GWENETH AMBRÖSE

The good school aims at teaching a student to see life steadily and to see it whole. This it accomplishes by guiding the mind, heart, and soul to translate details into principles—knowledge into wisdom, an attribute that does not fade with age.

Students depart for home after a busy and rewarding day at Kingsbury.

This panoramic view of Kingsbury's auditorium provides an enhancing picture of our school's architecture.

SPIRIT OF FREEDOM

THE SPIRIT OF FREEDOM—what does this intangible mean to us? With a moment's thought we can see the formation of an idea so large it becomes inconceivable. The "Spirit of Freedom," with all its ramifications, affects each of us every minute.

Our world, being only one minute part of the universe, has on its surface many people who follow many ideas and concepts. We are one of these peoples. We are a part of the small group which enjoys the privileges that freedom affords us.

With this as the theme of the 1962 Talon, we hope to impress upon you the importance of the gift which we have inherited. Treat it with respect and reverence. We must try as we live to be worthy of this opportunity. Without perseverance, tomorrow we may not have this precious gift of our heritage.

The freedom of Religion is enacted by Pat Pope during the Bible reading at every assembly.

TO THIS WE DEDICATE —

To this concept of democracy—the spirit of freedom—we dedicate our collection of memories in hope that it will not be only a memory but always a lasting reminder to us as we take our place in the adult world of responsibility.

Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Scrivner review their last summer's experience. Mrs. Savage, who attended Southern Illinois University and studied microbiology, botany, and zoology, had a grant from the National Science Foundation. Mrs. Scrivner studied guidance at the University of Arkansas under the National Defense Education Act.

Joe Williams, Robert Strayhorn, Gweneth Ambrose, and Tommy Dunaway look on as Mr. Buzbee demonstrates an experiment. Physics, one of the higher level courses offered at Kingsbury, is designed to prepare students for work in science on the college level.

College-preparatory English, a new course this year, is being taught to two classes of seniors. Here Mrs. McInnis' class are busy working on an outline of the Anglo-Saxon period in English literature. These classes will do more advanced work, read literature of a better quality, and study composition in more detail.

Mrs. McClain illustrates one of the principles of advanced math, another new course offered this year, to Mary Anne Moorehead. This course, usually taken as a fifth subject along with solid geometry and trigonometry, takes up analytical geometry, advanced algebra, and calculus. This, too, is another college-preparatory course.

Apparently Phyllis Nelson and Johnny Baker find Miss Acree's description interesting. Latin students soon find that "the dead language" is not so dead after all. Through Miss Acree's vivid descriptions the Romans come to life again. Latin not only teaches appreciation of Roman civilization, but it helps students understand other languages better.

Mrs. Hipp points out to her tenth grade English class some books that are recommended. English, far from being a dull subject, is often one of the most interesting because you learn history along with English. American literature is studied in the eleventh grade. Senior English concerns English literature and history.

Learn much about people and their ways.

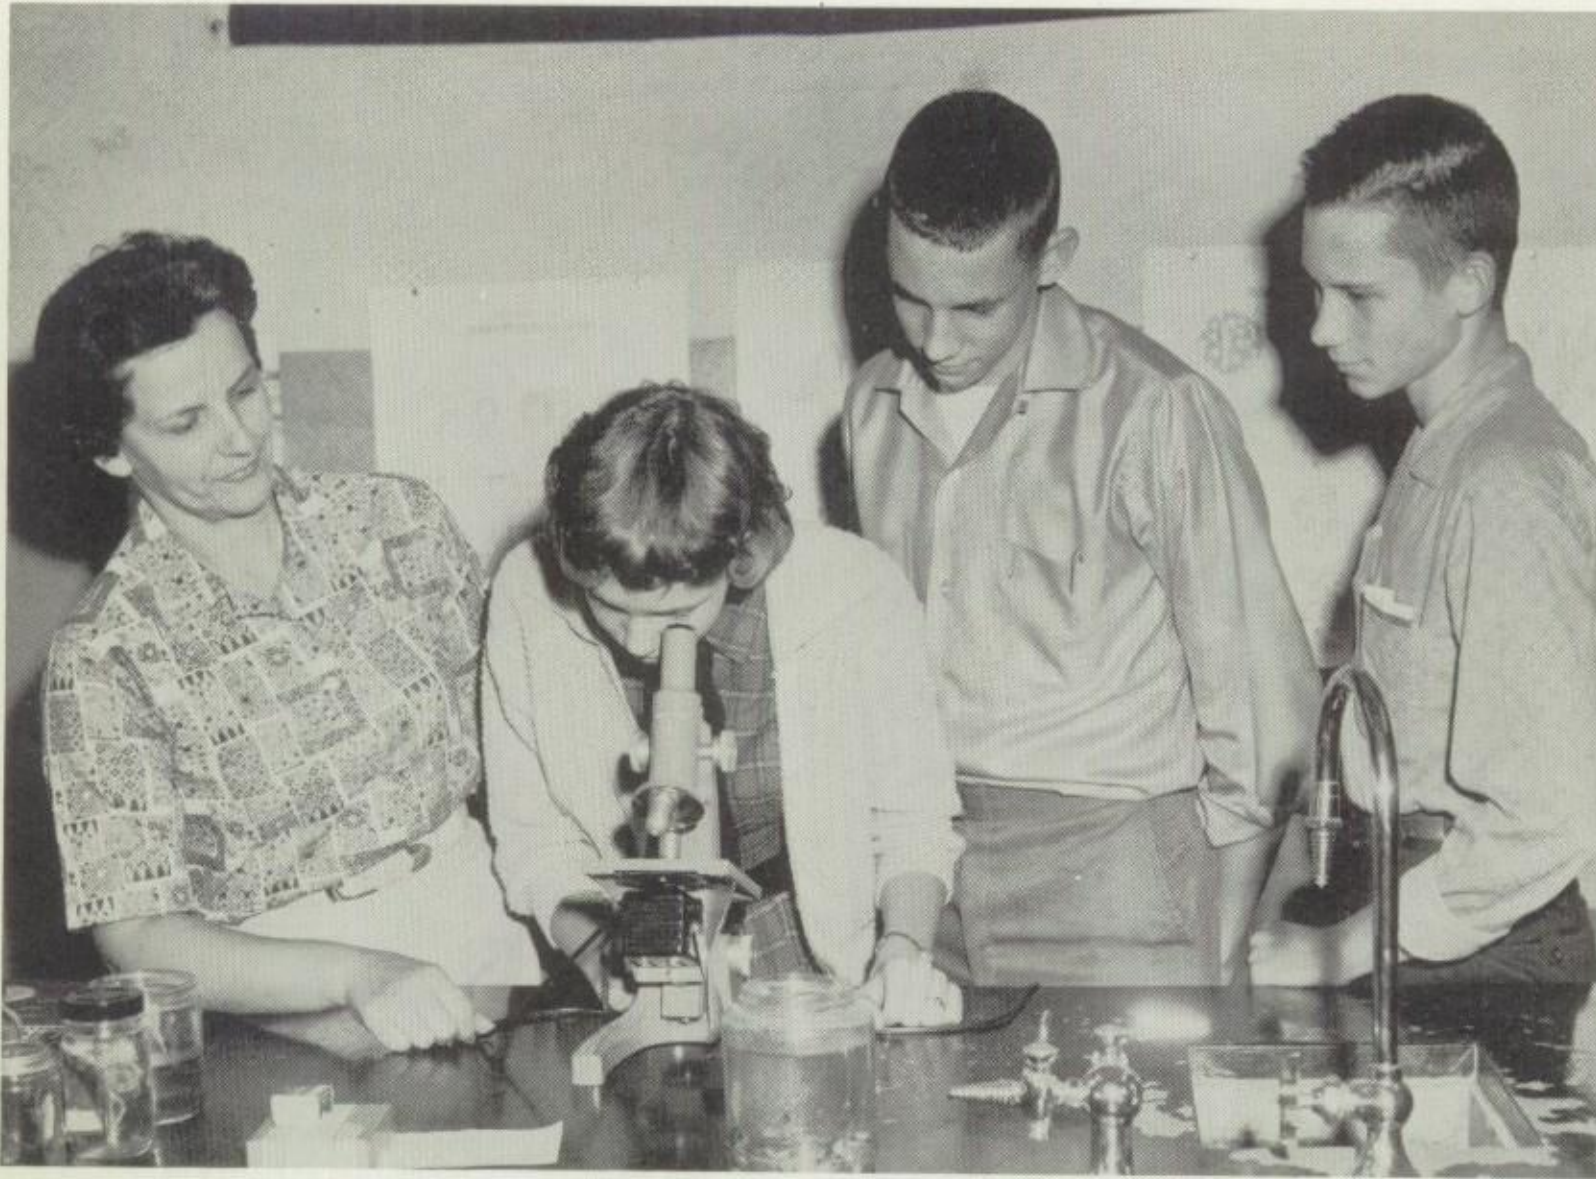

French is a new course at Kingsbury this year, but it seems already to be a popular course. The students are primarily interested in being able to speak French like a real Frenchman. While learning to speak French, the students gain an insight into the French-speaking people of other lands. Here Miss Gray tries to interest Sylvia Clifton in traveling to France.

"El libro es muy interesante, Señora Grantham," says Jimmy Rea while Herbert Montgomery and Nancy Barrett look on. Spanish, one of the three foreign languages offered at Kingsbury, is a practical course. While taking Spanish you learn a great deal about the people who speak the language. With such modern transportation facilities available today, the Spanish-speaking peoples are our near neighbors.

LANGUAGES

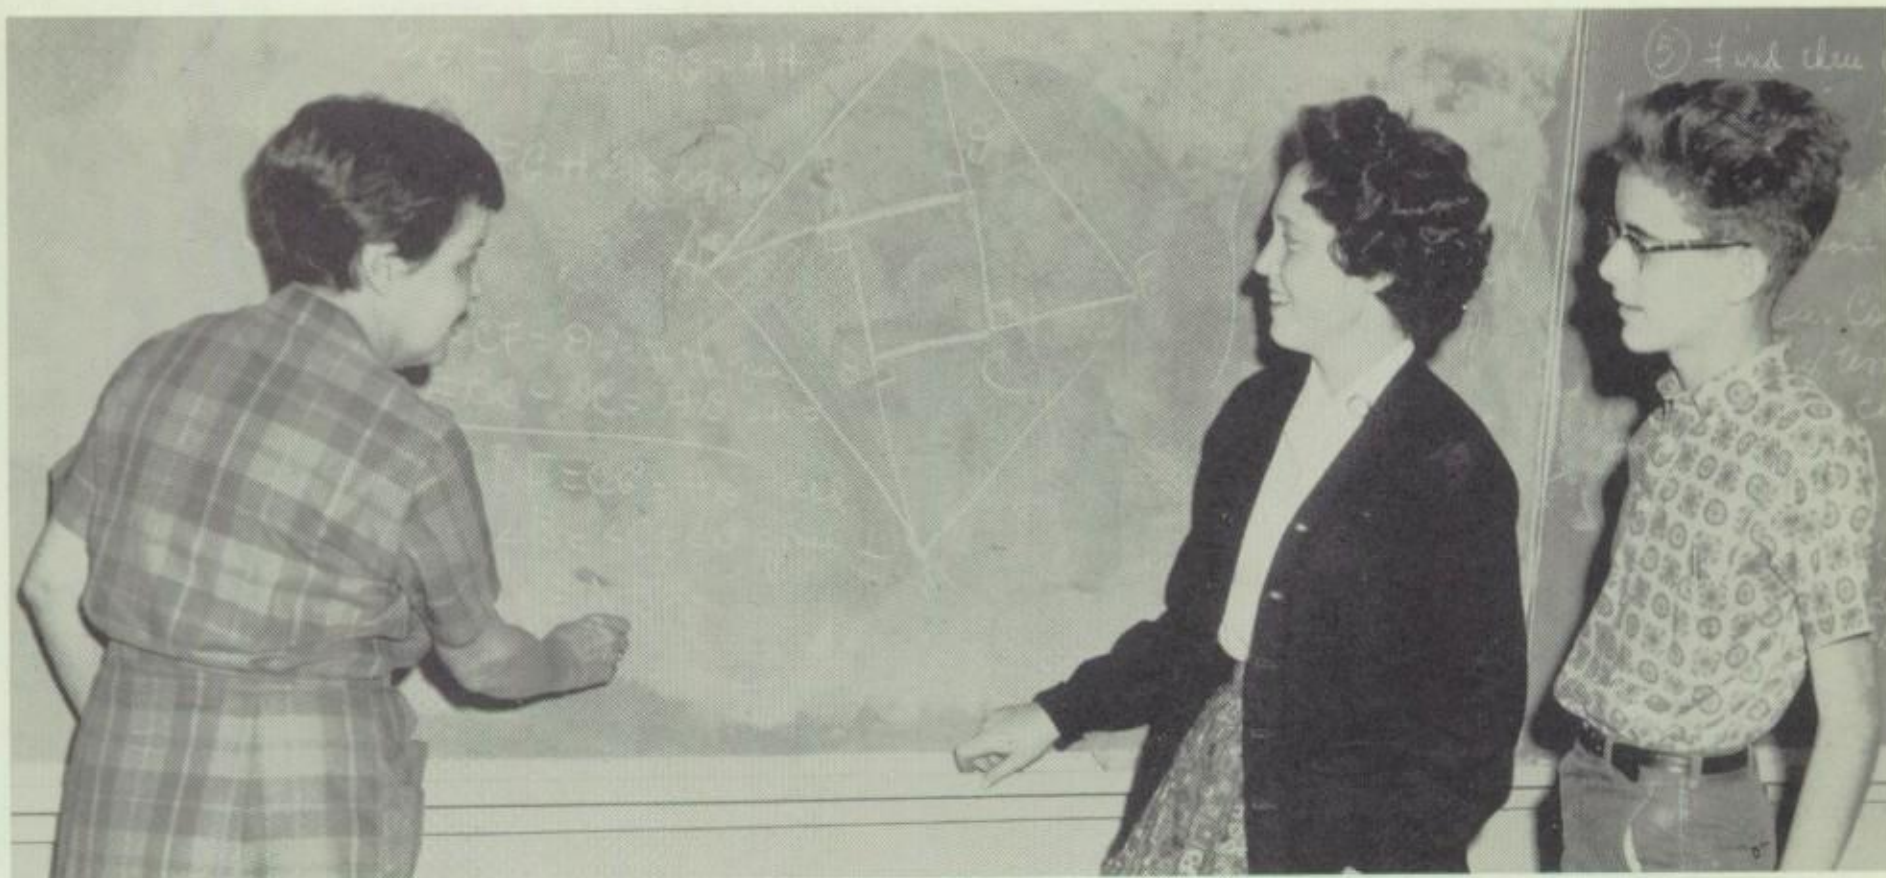

"Do you mean those things are in the water I drink?" asks Janie Whitaker as Mike Head and Mark Lipsey wait their turn at the microscope in Mrs. Savage's biology class. The biology course is designed to teach the awareness and appreciation of the environment through the study of the plant and animal kingdoms.

SCIENCE

help to teach us to think.

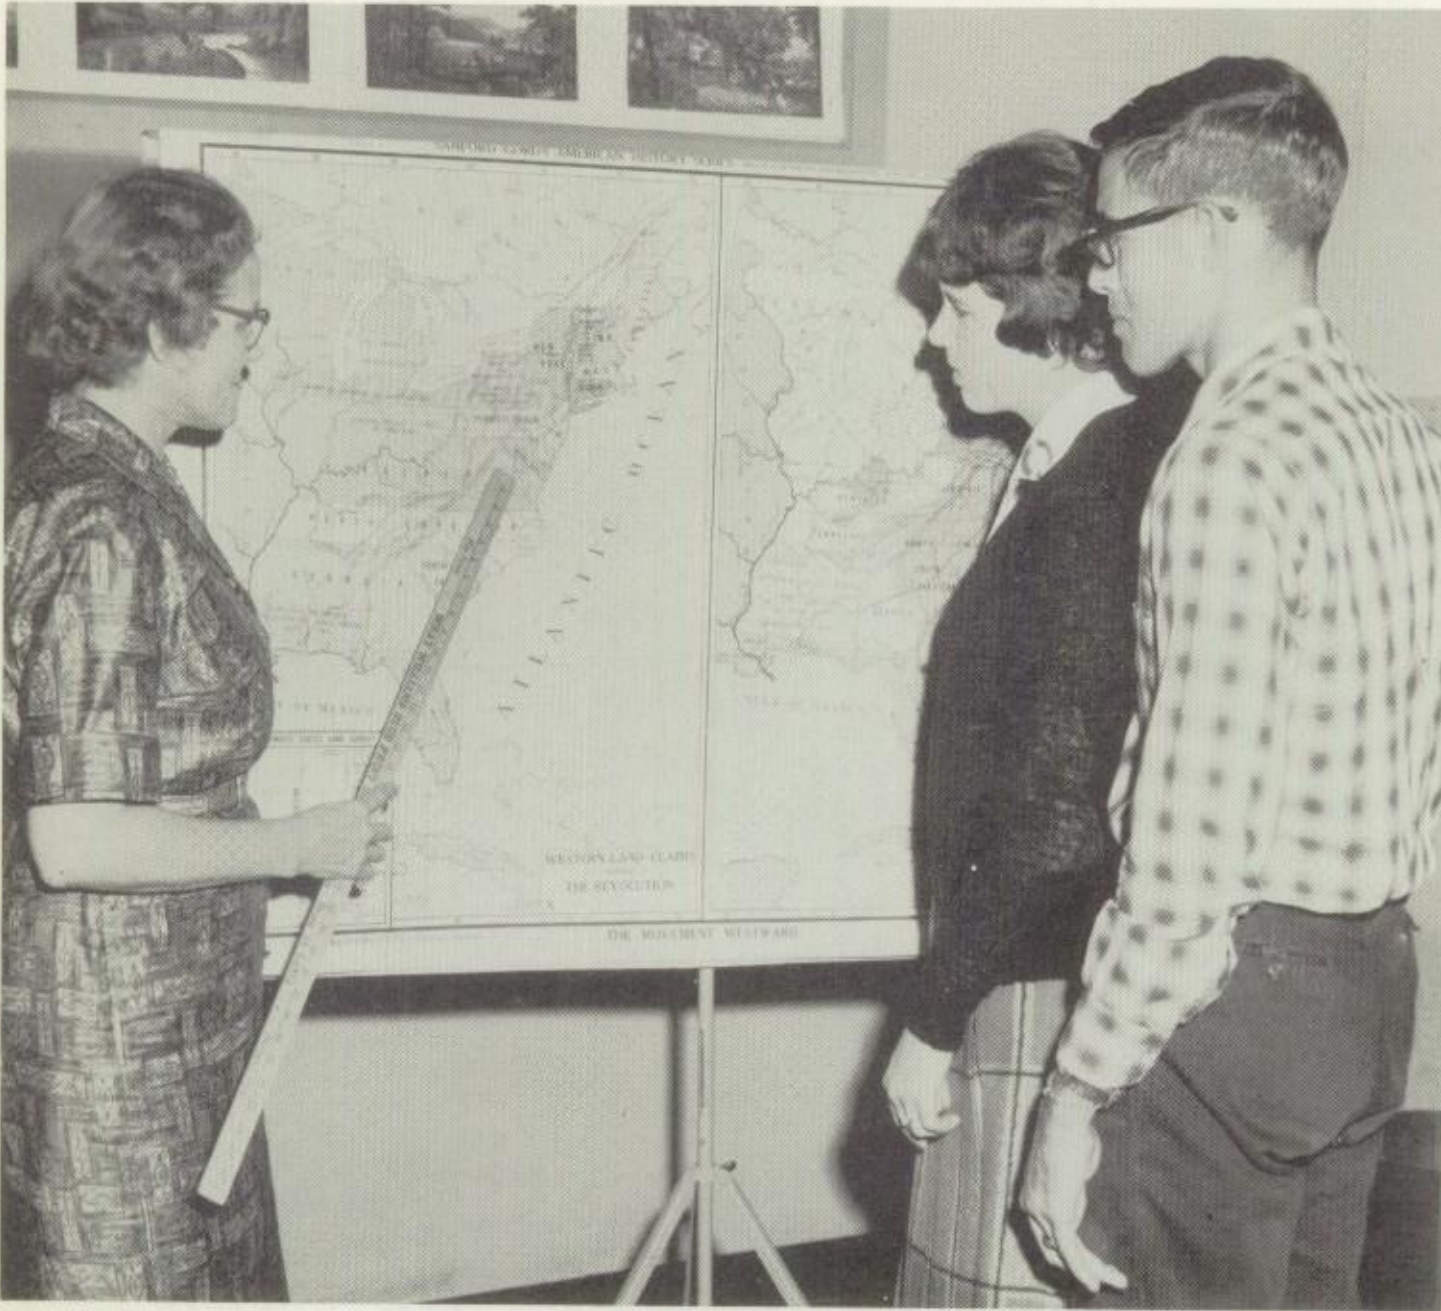

At the conclusion of a geometry problem, Mrs. Anderson tells Roberta Tamble and Ralph Robinson, "Therefore, triangle BFE is congruent to triangle DHG." Geometry, one of the fine math courses offered at Kingsbury, teaches one to think. One of the main objectives, with long lasting results, is to teach the student to reason.

MATHEMATICS

Mrs. Stewart seems to approve the technique of her chemistry students. Bobby Dye and Patt Greenwood conduct the experiment while Joe Gonyaw, Jimmy Landsdell, Walter Collins, Clyde Barnard, and Brenda Seals look on. To delve into the composition of matter is the purpose of chemistry.

History teaches us of past events while

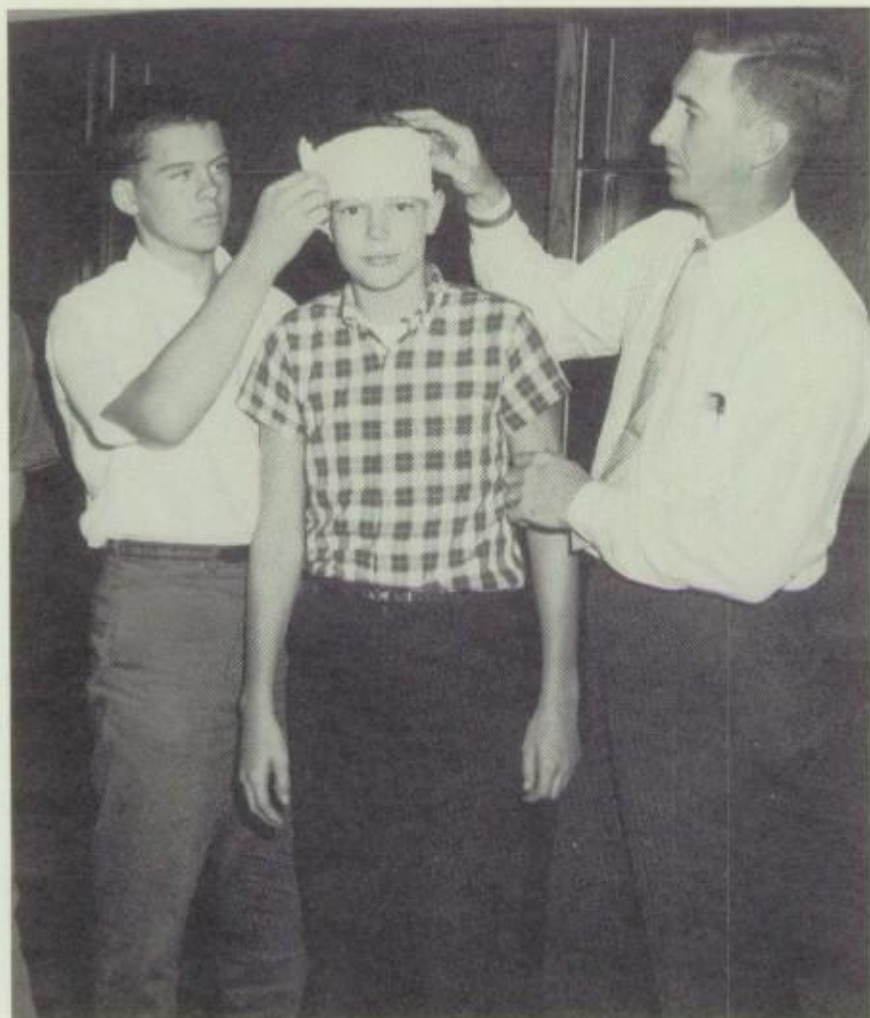

Mrs. Coker tells American history students Francis Palmertree and Jonathan Jefferies that, "Jamestown was the first permanent settlement in America." The main objective of the course is to inform the younger generation of their nation's heritage and to foster an appreciation of their country.

HISTORY

The members of Mr. Wicker's problems of democracy class are engrossed in a test. Mr. Wicker reports that his main goal in this class is to teach his students to be intelligent citizens. The course concerns the organization of the government, the social problems, and the economic problems of the nation.

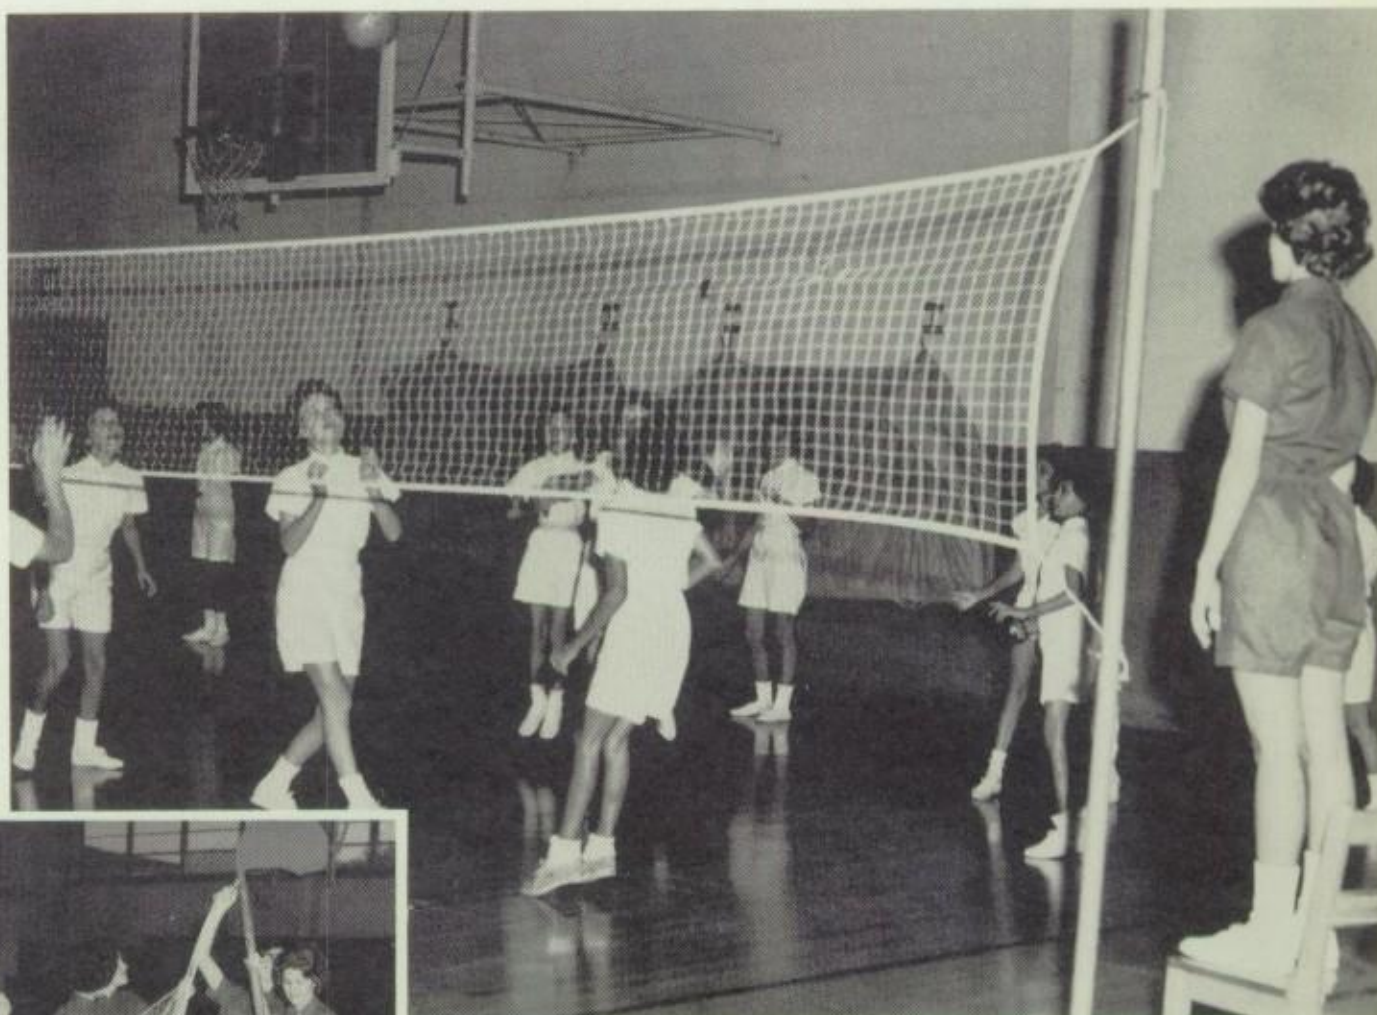

...e. helps prepare us for future ones.

Coach Brook helps Jerry Bayliss adjust the bandage which Phillip Hale displayed during the first aid course that the boys' Physical Education classes attended. This course is included in the curriculum at Kingsbury so that these young people may be prepared for any physical emergency that might arise when no physician is available.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Catherine Guess, a student assistant, officiates at a volleyball game during a girls' Physical Education class. The faculty of the Physical Education Dept. says its goal is to build sound minds and healthy bodies.

Student assistants set up the volleyball net in preparation for a game during Physical Education classes. These students assist the faculty in the regular girls' Physical Education classes. They receive no credit for their work, but the experience they acquire is quite valuable to those who plan to major in Physical Education in college.

TYPING

Elizabeth Clark, Brenda Carter, Sharon Howels are studiously at work in their typing class with Miss Duncan. The purpose of typewriting is to develop proficiency in this skill for personal or vocational use.

Typewriting in high school is no longer a subject to be taken only by those pupils who intend to qualify for the business field. It is also a useful aid to pupils in high school and college.

SPEECH

Sandra James delivers a speech to her fellow classmates in Miss Murray's Speech class. To be able to communicate ideas and thoughts orally and to develop poise are the main objectives in the study of speech.

MUSIC

Mr. Bousson's music class is one of the most popular courses offered at Kingsbury. In this class students learn the difference between good music and commonplace songs. They study harmony and how to perform before an audience. The chorus sing regularly at assembly programs.

BAND

Band sets high standards of mental concentration, alertness, honesty and integrity. Playing good music in the band presents one of the finest examples in life of individuals striving together in harmony for high and worthy achievement. Larry Wall, Ronny Scaggins, and Ralph Blanchard are shown during their practice period.

One of the fine points of tailoring is explained to Marilyn McKenzie by Mrs. Boyce in her third year Home Economics class. In this class the girls learn tailoring techniques which will enable them to create suits and coats in later life.

HOME ECONOMICS

Dorothy Hurst, Patsy Scott, Mary Lundy, and Virginia Miller put into practice what they are studying in Mrs. McCormick's Home Economics class. The objective in this course is to help the girls prepare for better home, family, and community living. Because of this course, they will be better homemakers of tomorrow.

Football

With the Falcon football team under the guidance of Jack Lewis, the new head coach, this was Kingsbury's first full season in the Prep League.

A fumble cost us the first game of the season with Treadwell, our biggest rival. The score was 6-0. In the Overton game the score changed sides several times, but the final count was 20-12, their favor.

One of the biggest games of the year was the Humes tilt at Hodges Field. During the last quarter of play, Butler fired a pass to Brimm, who made a spectacular catch and ran the remaining four yards for the touchdown. Hamilton kicked the extra point, making the final score 7-6, our favor.

After catching a pass, Falcon end Elwood Hamilton uses a stiff arm to throw off an on-coming tackler.

The Falcons couldn't seem to get started in the next two games, losing to Messick 43-0 and to East 14-0. However, this losing streak was reversed in the Oakhaven and West Side games. The Falcons won both these games 33-0.

The White Station game turned out as predicted with our Falcons coming out on the top side of a 20-6 ballgame. Our offense really sparked this win.

The honor of being chosen football queen this year went to Carolyn Gaither, senior high cheerleader. Carolyn, who was born in Georgia, has attended Kingsbury for six years. After completing high school she plans to be an airline stewardess. No matter where she goes, she will never forget the night she was crowned Kingsbury's football queen.

Newly crowned football queen Carolyn Gaither stands amazed with tears of happiness falling from her eyes. Myra Todd, last year's football queen, crowned the new queen. Carolyn's escort was Maury Tennyson.

Clyde Barnard practices his stride for the next cross-country meet.

Another highlight in the sporting events of the year was the outcome of the Cross-Country track team. This group, composed of basketball players, brought several honors to the school.

After winning the City Meet, which was held at Memphis State, they went on to place sixth in the State Meet. Bobby Shelton, who ranked first in the city, placed ninth in the state. Jack St. Clair, Arthur Boone, Clyde Barnard, and Marvin Aikens, finished 23rd, 31st, 36th, and 38th respectively in the State Meet.

Enthusiasm is widespread during one of the school pep meetings.

Basketball

VINCE BARKSDALE
Captain and Senior Guard

One of the biggest surprises of the school year in sports was the basketball team. Under the guidance of coach Bill Todd our Falcon team, which was predicted to finish under .500, improved greatly and soon became one of the basketball powers of the city. This year the League, as in football, was divided into two sections, with our school being in the Eastern Division.

One of the biggest upsets of the year was the game with East High, which had been in first place. The game was close all the way, but Kingsbury won the game in the last two minutes of play with Barksdale sinking some incredibly long set shots. The Falcons upset the Mustangs 63-60.

This game sparked the Falcons to win their next four straight games, with Catholic, West Side, Overton, and White Station. One of the highest scores of the season was made in the Overton game, 80-60, our favor, with Aikens scoring 33 points, the second highest score in the history of the school.

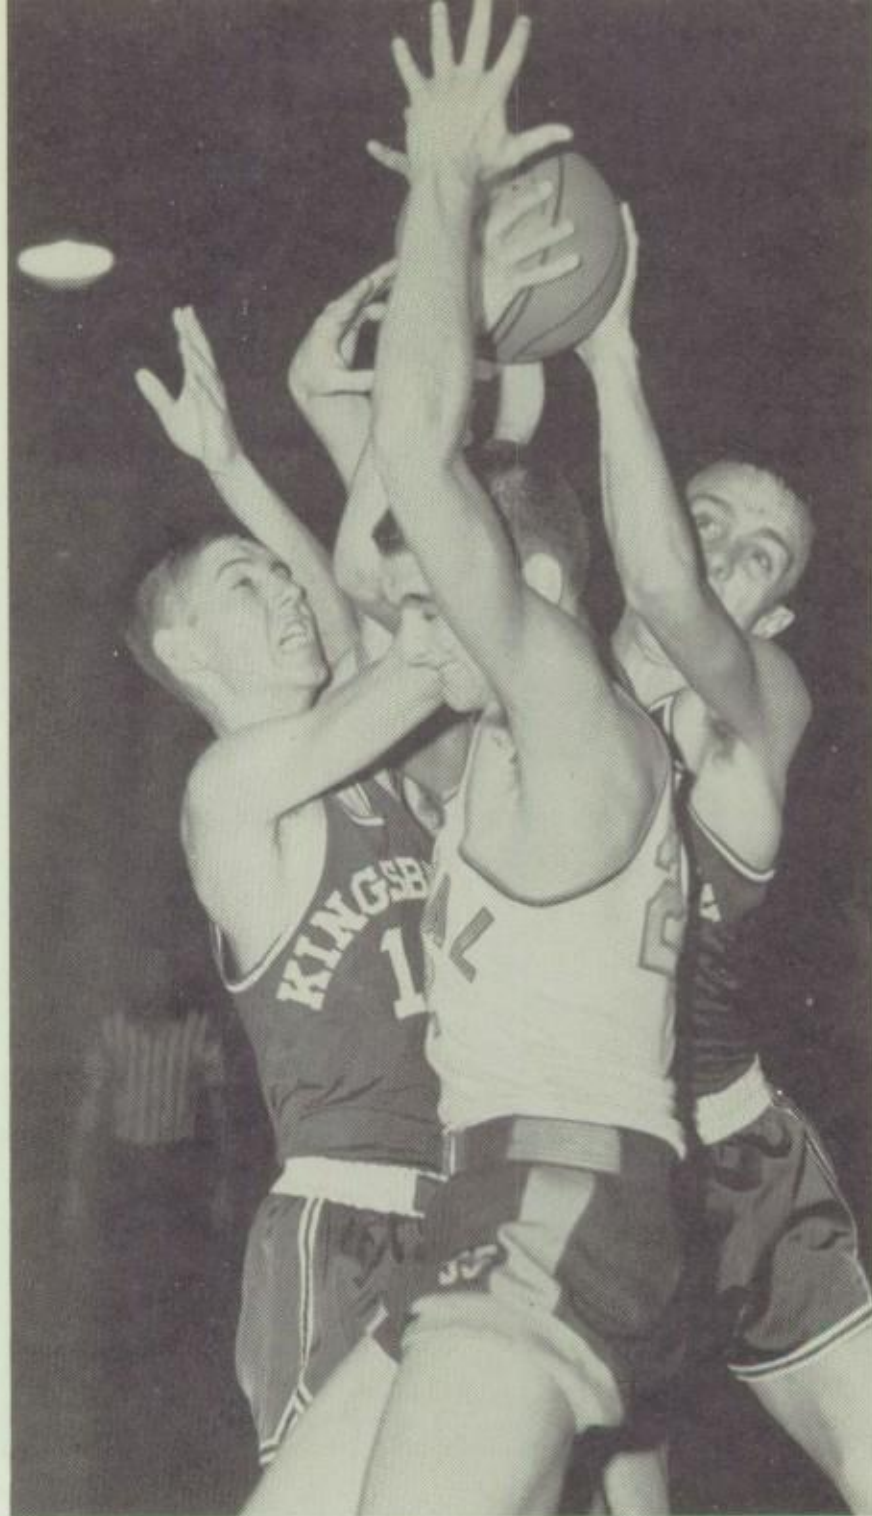

FALCON BASKETBALL TEAM: (front to back) Clyde Barnard, Charles Mazzone, Vince Barksdale, Mike Butler, Jack St. Clair, Bobby Shelton, Elwood Hamilton, Marvin Aikens, Barry Cochran, and Joe Hurt.

MIKE BUTLER
Sophomore Guard

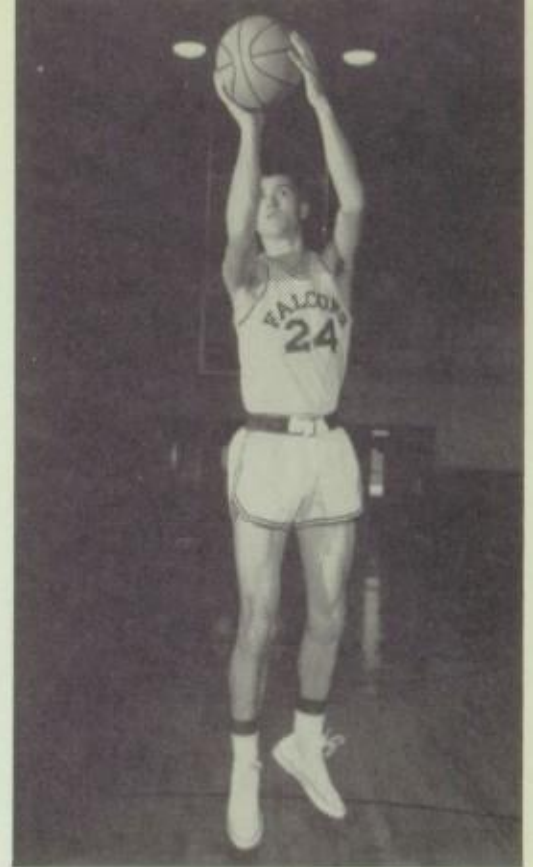

A hidden asset to the senior basketball team this season were statistician Bill Grogan, Jr., trainer Raymond Pierce, manager James Durham, and assistant manager Larry Davis.

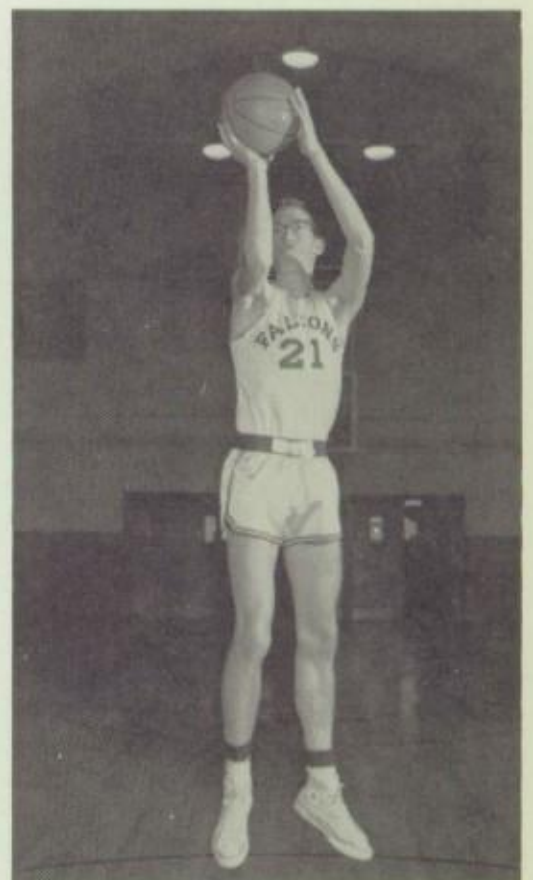

Falcon guards Vince Bardsdale and Bobby Shelton double up on Central's guard during the fast pace of the Central game.

The crowd goes wild as Marvin Aikens completes a 3-point play against Treadwell. The final score was Treadwell 61—Kingsbury 60.

During the season the Falcons lost to Humes, Frayser, and Central, who were all ranked high in the state. One of the most heart-breaking losses of the year was the Treadwell game played in their gym. The Eagles were victorious, 61-60.

At press time the record stands at eight wins and five defeats. Coach Todd, who has nothing but praise for his boys, states, "The team has come a long way. As compared with other teams of previous seasons I think that this season's team has more spirit and more teamwork than ever before."

Junior center Joe Hurt pulls down a valuable rebound as opponents try to block his follow-up shot. Teammates Barry Cochran and Marvin Aikens fight for a position under the board.

In November, 1961, a tradition was originated by the Kingsbury High School Parent Teacher Association. By official regulation of the United States of America, a water oak was planted on our campus.

The ceremonious occasion, which was held in observance of Arbor Week, was carried out by representatives of the Boy Scouts of America, the faculty, and the Parent Teacher Association. As all good things must have an equally worthy dedication, the planting of the tree was offered in tribute to the late Mrs. Annie Ellis, who was a member of the faculty before her death.
